Description

See #5 of <http://subforge.org/boards/1/topics/282> for more details, but the gist of it is:

- Clients on the desktop stacking layer already appear on all views, so adding the 'default' tag is redundant.
- If you have a view that is dynamic and displays the 'default' tag, like this:

view 'foo'
  match 'default'
  dynamic true
end
```

Then dynamic mode will never trigger, because the desktop client is tagged with 'default'.

Therefore, desktop clients should not be tagged with 'default'.
